"Críticas ""As a collage of writing of many different kinds, the Handbook crucially bears witness to the effect that Akerman has had on the film community, from her earliest movies until her last... The high quality of the texts included in the book are all a reminder of the way that her 'cinematic' qualities have advanced our understanding of film." (Laura Mulvey, from her foreword to the book) Reseña del editor Between 2013 and 2015, A Nos Amours presented in London a complete retrospective of the films of the celebrated film-maker Chantal Akerman, the only complete retrospective given to date. Rights and screening copies turn out to be widely scattered and incredibly difficult to access. The research needed to present this retrospective is offered in this book so that others may more easily follow suit. Also included are the texts, journalism and blogging that was offered to the audience as a means to engage with film-works that are at once radical, wildly varied in style and content, and surprisingly often, on account of their rarity, little known. The book aims to be accurate and a reliable source of detailed information about the films. The book is intended to serve as an Akerman companion and a key reference work. Many texts are included to provide invaluable insights, from the likes of Raymond Bellour, Richard

Brody, Ivone Margulies, Marion Schmid and Ginette Vincendeau. Laura Mulvey (whose phrase 'the male gaze' has revolutionised film theory) has written the foreword, surveying Akerman's achievement, making use of this book as an aide-mémoire for what stands as one of the astonishing bodies of work in all cinema: "As a collage of writing of many different kinds, the Handbook crucially bears witness to the effect that Akerman has had on the film community, from her earliest movies until her last... The high quality of the texts included in the book are all a reminder of the way that her 'cinematic' qualities have advanced our understanding of film." In 2013, the filmmaker Chantal Akerman's mother was dying, and she flew back from New York to Brussels to care for her. Between dressing her, feeding her, and putting her to bed, she wrote about her childhood, the escape her mother made from Auschwitz, but didn't talk about the difficulty of loving her girlfriend or her fear of what she would do when her mother did die. Chantal Akerman Retrospective Handbook by Joanna Hogg, Adam Roberts, and Laura Mulvey is an essential book for students of Chantal Akerman's work. Nothing happens, will also interest international film critics and scholars, filmmakers, art historians, and all readers concerned with feminist film theory. Chantal Akerman Retrospective Handbook by Joanna Hogg, Adam Roberts, and Laura Mulvey is an accurate and reliable source of detailed information about the films in short: the essential Chantal Akerman companion book cover. Our book Chantal Akerman Retrospective Handbook now on sale in the bookshop of Marian Goodman Gallery in Paris. Librairie Marian Goodman, 66 rue shared by Adam Roberts in the art journal Miraj, vol 8 1 & 2 just out. Thoughts from Adam Roberts walking around the Chantal Akerman exhibition 2015 a nos amours curated at Chantal Akerman Retrospective Handbook author Adam Roberts, Joanna Hogg, Laura Mulvey, Marion Schmid.
